Principal's Report:

Mr. Nihill handed out diagrams of the proposed changes to Mary Woodward Elementary school to make the school more secure. The plans are not final and construction is not scheduled to start until the summer of 2018. There might be the opportunity to have the project started in Fall of 2017, but only if the contractor's who bid for the work, would do their construction after school hours. The plans handed out by Mr. Nihill were collected, as they are not finalized.

Old Business: None.

New Business:

Judy Swiger, the parent who has is substituting while the librarian is out, brought up an idea to the PSO President that other schools are doing to raise money for their PSO. It's call a "Book Waterfall". Donations of books from kids and parents at the school would be organized by reading level and sold for $1 cash/book. This way "new-to-you" books would be in the hands of children prior to the summer break. It's goal is to raise some money and giving kids the opportunity to read books that looked interesting to them. One school make $1,000 with this project. Discussions ensued about donating and then having kids pick books for free, location, timing and staffing for the activity. This project is not finalized.
